the rise and fall of neoliberal rentier capitalism is an account of the political economy of capitalism in the 20th and 21st centuries capitalism is an unjust form of economic organisation it is a culture of exacerbated individualism justified by the glorification of individual competition today after 40 years of neoliberalism capitalism faces again a legitimization crisis the book discusses capitalism after two revolutions the organisational revolution and the democratic revolution it views capitalism since the new deal in the us and the post war as a progressive and developmental era and the neoliberal turn as the change from social democracy to radical and regressive global neoliberalism which was a regressive time for almost forty years in the neoliberal years rentiers replaced entrepreneurs in the command of the economy and called on the financiers to manage their wealth and serve as organic intellectuals and both mounted an attack to the state which is the main capitalist institution the global crisis and in 2020 the covid pandemic showed that the state remains the nations resource of last instance the transition of china from statism to an active developmentalism resulted in an extraordinary growth given such realities in 2021 we saw the collapse of neoliberalism and in the united states a developmental turn the state is back in the economy the transition phase we live in is characterised by three main forces economic liberalism managerialism and democracy economic liberalism is the great defeated managerialism became powerful and is developmental and democracy is the stronger force it was attacked by neoliberalism and is now being attacked by right wing populism but resisted and resists brilliantly proving that it was a conquest of the popular classes that became a universal value counting on the support of all social classes the financial and economic collapse that began in the united states in 2008 and spread to the rest of the world continues to burden the global economy david kotz who was one of the few academic economists to predict it argues that the ongoing economic crisis is not simply the aftermath of financial panic and an unusually severe recession but instead is a structural crisis of neoliberal or free market capitalism consequently continuing stagnation cannot be resolved by policy measures alone it requires major institutional restructuring kotz analyzes the reasons for the rise of free market ideas policies and institutions beginning around 1980 he shows how the neoliberal capitalism that resulted was able to produce a series of long although tepid economic expansions punctuated by relatively brief recessions as well as a low rate of inflation this created the impression of a great moderation however the very same factors that promoted long expansions and low inflation growing inequality an increasingly risk seeking financial sector and a series of large asset bubbles were not only objectionable in themselves but also put the economy on an unsustainable trajectory kotz interprets the current push for austerity as an attempt to deepen and preserve neoliberal capitalism however both economic theory and history suggest that neither austerity measures nor other policy adjustments can bring another period of stable economic expansion kotz considers several possible directions of economic restructuring concluding that significant economic change is likely in the years ahead
