our purpose in writing this book is multifaceted first this book aims to present a clear understanding of going concern valuations at the same time resolving the current misrepresentations surrounding the issue additionally this book offers a new set of rules readers can use to determine which property types qualify as going concern valuations and which do not this book presents an understanding that in performing a going concern valuation of properties which are perceived to have a business component it may not be possible to segregate allocate or value the components individually for example when appraising the going concern value of a motel with occupancy of 75 it could be argued and possibly proven that there is a value that can be separated from the overall value or going concern value to the business component on the other hand however appraising that same motel with only 40 occupancy presents a completely different set of circumstances that could easily draw completely opposite conclusions it simply may be a lack of sufficient tools or data to argue and prove that the business component in fact has value separate from the real estate to do so with authority is tantamount to ignorance or arrogance

why should anyone care about the medium of communication today especially when talking about media law in today s digital society many emphasise convergence and seek new regulatory approaches in medium law however the medium theory insights of harold innis marshall mcluhan and the toronto school of communication are drawn upon as part of an argument that differences between media and technological definitions continue to play a crucial role in the regulation of the media indeed mac síthigh argues that the idea of converged cross platform medium neutral media regulation is unattainable in practice and potentially undesirable in substance this is demonstrated through the exploration of the regulation of a variety of platforms such as films games video on demand and premium rate telephone services regulatory areas discussed include content regulation copyright tax relief for producers and developers new online services conflicts between regulatory systems and freedom of expression this timely and topical volume will appeal to postgraduate students and postdoctoral researchers interested in fields such as law policy regulation media studies communications history and cultural studies
