in spiritual guides pathfinders in the desert fred dallmayr challenges the desert character of modern culture political and economic corruption incessant warmongering spoliation of natural resources and above all mindless consumerism and greedy self satisfaction are all symptoms of what he contends is an expanding wasteland or desert where everything creative and nourishing decays and withers through an alternative interpretation of nietzsche s saying the desert grows this book calls for spiritual renewal invoking in particular four prominent guides or pathfinders in the desert paul tillich raimon panikkar thomas merton and pope francis what links all four guides together is the view of spiritual life as an itinerarium a pathway along difficult and often uncharted roads dallmayr begins by drawing a connection between nietzsche s characterization of the desert in thus spoke zarathustra and the present culture of consumerism in which a nearly exclusive emphasis on productivity efficiency profitability and the transformation of everything valuable into a useful resource prevails over all other goals he also draws attention to another sense of desert namely as a place of solitude meditation and retreat from affliction aptly defined it becomes a place where spirituality arises from a painful turning about a wrenching effort to extricate human life from the decay of late modernity spirituality is not a possession or property but rather the contemplation and radical mindfulness that we develop through engaged practices as we search for pathways to recovery spirituality becomes critical in the dominant political and cultural wasteland because it provides a bond linking humanity together in the spirit of global ecumenism spiritual guides also includes a discussion of muslim hindu and buddhist forms of spirituality this book will interest students and scholars of philosophy political theory and religion
